

coming together for young children and families

local interagency coordinating council in wake county [LICC]

Press Release

October 27, 2011
Raleigh, NC

Coming Together for Young Children and Families, the Wake County Local Inter-Agency Coordinating Council (www.wakelicc.org) is a collaborative partnership among parents, caregivers, public agencies, private and non-profit organizations, and interested community members or organizations. The Coming Together for Young Children and Families partnership promotes a coordinated and effective Early Intervention (EI) system in Wake County.

Coming Together for Young Children and Families is pleased to announce new and updated materials for families and professionals in Wake County. Coming Together offers a Child Developmental Brochure that includes a birth – five developmental checklist as well as a list of local agencies that serve children birth – five who have a developmental disability, developmental delay, or are at risk for developmental delay. This brochure is available in English and Spanish Coming Together is also pleased to present an updated (electronic only) version of our Early Intervention Road Map. This resource guide includes information on early intervention, support for families, resources such as childcare, assistive technology/equipment, materials, medical information and more. It also includes a glossary of acronyms and terms used in the early intervention community as well as the special needs community in general. One of the most useful features of the Road Map is an actual “road map” diagram of the early intervention timeline from birth to five years of age.

The updated Spanish version of the Early Intervention Road Map will be available in the coming months. A printed version may be produced if funding becomes available in the future.

You can download electronic versions of all three pieces at no charge by visiting www.wakelicc.org.

Printed versions of the Child Developmental Brochures can be ordered for a nominal fee.
